

Professional & Technical Recruitment

The Coyle Professional and Technical Division is dedicated to providing permanent and temporary employment solutions for both employers and job seekers.

Our success has been built on establishing and maintaining excellent long-term relationships with our clients through our consultants, who have either a minimum of 5 years experience in recruitment or within the construction industry itself.

We have an extensive database, containing thousands of skilled, complaint workers based across the country. This means we are able to source workers in any area to suit the needs of any project.

We also specialise in sourcing last-minute workers, so if your in a tight spot and need some extra staff on site, we can help.
